CRISTÓBAL BALENCIAGA MUSEOA

With the intention of promoting technical transmission aimed not only at highlighting the immaterial aspects of Cristóbal Balenciaga's know-how, but also at making this knowledge available to a new generation of fashion professionals, the museum presents this advanced course in the specific methods used in the couturier's tailoring ateliers.

The practical and intensive training is part of the programme of courses of the tailoring itinerary and can be carried out either as part of the proposed plan or as an independent activity. Although it is valued that the interested person has previously completed the introductory and/or intermediate course of the same itinerary, it is not a compulsory requirement to obtain a place.

The course—running for five days—will include demonstrations of his sewing and pressing techniques. Furthermore, to ensure that the participants achieve practical skills in these techniques, they will produce half jacket forming part of a suit made at the Balenciaga Maison in Paris. Specifically, a double-breasted blue and white wool twill model with a quadrillé pattern dating from February 1966 and belonging to the museum collection, an excellent example of the designer's rigorous technical command.

The various exercises to be produced will emphasize the treatment of finishes for tailoring fabrics and to the techniques and operations required to create the hand-made jacket in checked fabric with a Japanese sleeve and flap pocket. Special attention will be also paid to adapting the pattern to the fabric design for seamless continuation of the quadrille motif.

Javier Martín

Resident in Madrid though originally from Ávila, Javier Martín graduated at the Polytechnic University of Madrid as Senior Fashion Designer in 1991. During his formative years, he met Carmen and Emilia Carriches, seamstresses at the EISA workshop in the capital and first assistants of the head couturier, Felisa Irigoyen. From them he learned the specific dressmaking techniques of the couturier from Getaria and acquired knowledge on the construction of volumes that would shape his designs.

For ten years, he was part of the team at Sybilla, until 2005, when he decided to create his own brand, Nihil Obstat, focused on Haute Couture. He combines his activity as a designer with collaborations with other creative artists such as Carmen May, Jesús del Pozo or Joaquín Trías, the latter the grandson of a model of the Balenciaga house, to whom he provides technical advice. He worked from 2012 to 2019 for the Spanish company DELPOZO, taking care of the modelling and development of the volumes of part of the collection and developing luxury prêt-à-porter garments with an international projection.

Also a lecturer, he has participated in educational projects of the Spanish Government's Ministry of Education, and has given lectures on design and modelling at the Centro Superior de Diseño de Moda of the Universidad Politécnica de Madrid, the European Design Institute of Madrid, and at the Estación Diseño school in Granada, among others.
